Conference on Spatial Inequality in Latin America

Institute of Public Policy and Development Studies
Universidad de las Americas-Puebla
Cholula, Mexico

November 1, 2 and 3rd. 2002

Call For Papers

In response to the number and quality of papers submitted for the Cornell/LSE/WIDER Conference on Spatial Inequality and Development, a further conference has been scheduled, focusing specifically on Spatial Inequality in Latin America. The conference will be organized by the Institute of Public Policy and Development Studies at Universidad de las Americas-Puebla, Mexico, on November 1, 2, and 3rd, 2002.

The organizers invite submissions of completed papers or substantial abstracts that describe and analyze the evolution and state of spatial inequality in Latin America (either within country or region-wide). A broad view is taken of inequality, covering the distribution of such variables as economic activity, economic structure, population, income, social indicators, infrastructure and public expenditure.

Papers selected for the conference will in turn be considered for a special issue of a leading English language Latin American Journal, to be edited by Ravi Kanbur (Cornell University), Luis F. Lopez-Calva (Colegio de México and UDLAP) and Tony Venables (London School of Economics).

Completed papers or substantial abstracts should be submitted electronically to Luis F. Lopez-Calva, lflopezc@mail.udlap.mx, by July 15, 2002. Decisions will be notified by August 15, 2002. The conference will meet the travel and accommodation costs of one presenter per paper.
